

Kristin Boeke-Greven

Kristin Boeke-Greven is a writer with extensive experience crafting speeches, presentations and articles for senior executives from companies and associations in a variety of industries.

She writes for senior executives from home-improvement giant Lowe's Companies, Inc.; IT management software provider CA; Whirlpool Corporation; The Coca-Cola Company; InterContinental Hotels Group (which owns the Holiday Inn, Crowne Plaza and InterContinental hotel brands); strategy consultancy Bain & Company; and the IAHI, the owners' association of InterContinental Hotels Group.

Kristin spent nine years at Golin/Harris, one of the largest public relations agencies in Chicago. As a Vice President there, she managed corporate, business-to-business and consumer marketing programs for clients, including Lowe's Companies, Owens Corning, Pergo, The Home Safety Council, Holiday Inn Worldwide, W Hotels, and MasterCard International.

Early in her career, Kristin worked for the New York State Assembly, first as a press secretary and speechwriter, then as regional communications manager for the Speaker's Communications Office. She also worked for the Democratic Assembly Campaign Committee, where she served as campaign manager for New York State Assembly candidates. Kristin began her career as a legislative aide to the Wisconsin State Senate Majority Leader.
